

Topic #1:

- Topic sentence (What is being discussed in this paragraph?)
- Evidence (Specific facts and information)
- Analysis (What does the evidence prove?)
- Sentence to link this topic to the thesis

Topic #2:

- Topic sentence (What is being discussed in this paragraph?)
- Evidence (Specific facts and information)
- Analysis (What does the evidence prove?)
- Sentence to link this topic to the thesis

Topic #3:

- Topic sentence (What is being discussed in this paragraph?)

- Evidence (Specific facts and information)

- Analysis (What does the evidence prove?)

- Sentence to link this topic to the thesis

You may need to add more topics, but follow the same format. Alternatively, for each topic, you most likely need more than one piece of evidence, each of which may require its own paragraph or more.

Concluding paragraph:

- Restate the thesis

- Brief statement about how the body paragraphs show the thesis is correct

- Make a broad statement about this topic by answering one of these questions: How does it influence the world today? What can we learn from this topic? What should be done differently in the future? How does this improve our understanding of the world? (Choose one)